

St James' Local History KS2 Learning Package

Acknowledgements

St James' Heritage and Environment Group would like to thank everyone involved in developing this History Hunters learning package, in particular the following groups and individuals:

- The volunteers who work tirelessly to maintain and improve the historic graveyard of St James' Church in Benwell and to collect research evidence and materials about local history, thus creating an invaluable resource for learning about and celebrating the history of the west end of Newcastle
- Alison Stancliffe who devised and wrote this learning package in partnership with the Heritage and Environment Group
- The teachers and pupils of the four local primary schools (Bridgewater, Hawthorn, St Paul's CofE, and St Joseph's RC) who trialled the learning package at various stages of its development and were instrumental in shaping the final version
- Those individuals and groups who gave generously of their help and advice, notably the volunteers of West Newcastle Picture History Collection, staff of the local studies section of Newcastle Libraries and Information Service, Patricia Riley (expert on the Sowerby family and author of Looking for Githa) and David Kidd (expert on John Buddle and author of A Little Light in the Darkness)
- Tyne and Wear Archives and Museums, Newcastle Libraries and Information Service, West Newcastle Picture History Collection, North of England Institute of Mining and Mechanical Engineers, Gateshead Council Libraries Service, and others for permission to use images from their collections. Images used in the learning package may not be reproduced without permission of the owners. For detailed information about the sources of documents and images and associated copyright, please contact St James' Heritage and Environment Group at the following email address: stjamesbenwell@gmail.com"
